

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim: the reformation initiative is designed basing on understanding government's needs and the challenges of the phase

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim stressed that the national reformation initiative is designed basing on understanding of the needs of government and executive leadership to handle the demands and challenges of the phase, noting that the initiative proposed founding the Political Council for National Security in order to be an inclusive foundation comprised of the leaders of Iraq, a circle of wisdom and counseling, where the decisions that concern Iraq and future of Iraq are to be agreed upon by Iraq's leaders and the circle members, and to provide the desired covers for the government and its president, calling for investment of international support for Iraq and the regional understanding of Iraq's role in order to surpass the political congestion and forming of a reformist government that we give it the required support and adequate space to be able to find the substantial solutions for the intractable problems, indicating that any reform process would not be easy and will be accompanied by some of the aches and pains, bearing the real leaders of Iraq the responsibility to support the government and its decisions by the masses as like as they support it legislatively, calling at the same time, the prime minister of government and his governmental team that they should be aware that their success will be dependent on the political and masses support they receive from the country's leaders and everyone feeling being part in decision making gives the needed confidence space to overcome this crisis, stressing the need to return to the "we" terminology and leave the "I".

\r\n

\r\n

This took place in the official ceremony of the Iraqi Martyr Day Memorial and the Martyrdom of Sayyid al-Sadr (sanctify their souls) attended by the Three Presidencies at the Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim Baghdad office on Saturday April, 9 2016.

\r\n

His Eminence linked between the sacrifices made before and after the fall of the former idol, noting that there is no difference between them, considering this fact as a definite evidence that we are still in the confrontation phase and at the peak of moments of conflict, noting that the only difference is in that the current phase is not limited to fighting idols of dictatorship and tyranny, but also fighting idols of self-narcissism and personalization that had grown within us without being aware of it, stressing that the fight towards freedom is cruel , bloody and painful, pointing to the need to win the Biggest Jihad (the highest forms of Jihad which is fighting temptations and desires of self) , noting that the enemy today is not a dictator crouching his palace and arrested his people oppressed behind walls of humiliation and subjugation, and our enemy is not a blinded diabolically terrorism that subsists by the bodies of innocents in the name of religion and mislead martyrdom, but the real enemy is ourselves, and we bear this great responsibility in order to serve this honorable people and to be trustees of this great nation, considering this challenge as the most serious challenges, elaborating by stating \"to fall by the hands of your enemy is not as to fall by the hands of your brother and your companion in project, approach and vision, not as the to fall in the eyes of your people who are looking up to the future with concern and confusion. \"

\r\n

Stressing that the enemy today is in disagreeing on a single vision that we walk together for building of this generous country, and our enemy is our intersection in the image of homeland and disagreeing on defining people and the peoples' space and not being aware the depth of the divine destiny of a nation called Iraq, \" expressing his regrets for the loss of a lot of unrepeated opportunities in spite of a lot of what was offered in return, calling for reconsideration and take responsibility.

\r\n

His Eminence diagnosed the current crisis, is an identity crisis and not a crisis of the government, adding, \"once we overcome it, all problems no matter how big they are will remain small in front of the faithful people and all challenges no matter how difficult they are will be limited in front of who are united under one the country and the vision\", addressing the leaders of Iraq to the need to work honestly and focus on present, and cohesion for the sake of the future , stressing the need for unity of hearts and overcome the narrow calculations and stand for the overall big image and there is no bigger than image Iraq and its future and the future of its people of all Denominations, religions and ethnicities , stressing that the reasonability and moderation approach is the path of the Al-Mihrab Martyr Movement.

\r\n

His Eminence indicated that Iraq is before a big opportunity and will not be the last, \"because Iraq would not be in a position of a one last opportunity ever, Iraq is bigger than all the standards and specifications and unbounded by time limitation, by such we believe in Iraq and by this vision we are moving in its spaciousness \" adding \"but limited opportunities are for us, the project handlers and the flag holders and the responsibility bearers, \"noting that it arrived after a decade that we spent enough share of disagreements and tried all there is of patching solutions and we used all of sectarianism, nationalism, ethnicity and regionalism hypotheses, but a decade later of pain, the opportunity to tell us that we are all incomplete projects and we will not be whole unless under Iraq that holds us together, calling for making all of proposals for the sake of Iraq.