

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakim: The post-ISIS requires arrangements and concessions and making critical decisions

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakim, Chairman of Islamic Supreme Council of Iraq, warned from spreading failure and frustration in the surroundings of the Iraqi individual, confirming that Iraq is on its way to recovery because everyone had discovered the reality of terrorism, and that there are other countries that are likely to face the same fate, calling for the need to pay attention to the post-ISIS phase and to set required arrangements for the resolutions as to take critical decisions which is not weakness, on the contrary it is representing appointed courage for it would contribute to nation-building, stressing as well the importance of an unbiased political bloc in the management of the country, indicating that the tools used to run the country in 2005 is not suitable for running the country in 2016, at which variables should be put into considerations on the national, regional and international levels, explaining by stating “ the unbiased political blocs will provide participation and partnership through the government and the Council of Strategic Policies.”

\r\n

This took place at the Dewan of Baghdad of professional elites at his eminence Baghdad office, Saturday 4/6/2016. His eminence indicated that ISIS are not a mafia or a gang, but it is a political project with a security suit and covered by political, economic and media layers, describing war against ISIS as a universal war as ISIS is observed all over the world.

\r\n

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakim indicated that Iraq is ending ISIS and ISIS is no longer the undisputed monster as some had thought in the beginning, noting that liberating Garma has high strategic dimensions, calling to have a political project to accompany the progress in the security, drawing the attention towards the importance of psychological, educational and economic solutions to be present as well, considering the cohesion of the Iraqi people a live proof of recovery and the restoration of trust