

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakim praises the high spirit found in the wounded officers of the security forces, the popular forces and the civilians victims of the recent bombings

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakim, chairman of the Islamic Supreme Council of Iraq, had frequented a number of hospitals in Baghdad for the purpose of visiting the wounded officers of the security forces, the popular forces and the civilians victims of the recent bombings, praising the high spirit among them and their eagerness to return to the battlefields as soon as they recover from their injuries. Wednesday, 07/06/2016.

\r\n

His eminence valued the high efforts and care provided to the wounded despite the financial crisis, indicating that the Iraqis will triumph against terrorism regardless of how far terrorism goes by shedding Iraqi blood and targeting innocent noncombatant civilians, calling the security institutions to review the security plans and the verdict the terrorists to death sentences.