

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakim: the battle of liberation need to prepare the ground psychologically, politically and militarily

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakim, head of the Iraqi National Alliance, described the liberating the land from the hands of Daesh usurpers, outlaws, and subversive deviant ideologists a big challenge, detailing the reason for making it the biggest challenge by saying, \"this challenge is to create a platform for the battle psychologically, politically and militarily, and the military readiness could be the easiest,\" noting the heroic militants and mujahideen are ready to carry out their duties for the sake of their faith and their holy places and their homeland, adding, \"but the anxiety comes from some who may not accommodate the diligence and gravity of the challenge and drown in self-accounts and personal attitudes, or who are thinking of getting an excess piece of land more than the limits allow him.\"

\\r\\n

This took place at the apostles' semi-annual conference preceding the month of Ramadan and the month of Muharram in Najaf Thursday, 22.9.2016.

\\r\\n

The patience of the people and the Religious Authority are the reason for this achievement

\\r\\n

the leader of the Iraqi National Alliance indicated that the devious terrorist Daesh is vanquished, and all the world testify that in spite of all problems, obstacles and challenges the Iraqis had proven that \"they might bow, but won't kneel\", indicating that this achievement was possible through the patience of the people of Iraq and their will, and because of the Religious Authority this graceful blessing from God, being the father, the shepherd, the guidance that set our route.

\\r\\n

The Iraqi experience has serious mistakes

\\r\\n

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakim counted the project to build the state and the cohesion of community the foundation for homeland protection project, indicating that the launching point is unifying goals in spite of varied tracks, for without the unity of goal, vision and project, we are unable to further protecting the country and consolidate its historical and cultural role and demarcation of our role as a people in the present and future, noting that the Iraqi experience was difficult, bitter and harsh with many mistakes committed, perhaps mostly are not committed intentionally, but serious mistakes committed and had costed us a lot and we almost could lose everything, explaining the these mistakes by saying \"one of the most important reasons for these mistakes that we were thinking in individual separated minds! And this separation was not limited to thoughts only, but also extended to the separation from reality and lack of interacting with social events, accelerating developments and huge complex challenges efficiently with the desired level of depth and seriousness. \"

\r\n

The roadmap of priorities in the current and future phase

\r\n

His Eminence stated that the legitimate and moral, national and humanitarian responsibility is guide and regulator for the compass of \"our movement in the political and social mission\", calling to plan a roadmap for priorities in the current and future phase, expressing his certainty that the working in separated minds, factional projects, hasty steps and being overwhelmed with reactions does not lead to any desired outcome, as well as the aggravation and escalation and cramping in attitudes that may win a round but lose the project and public and the nation, shouldering the apostles the responsible for the forming public awareness and to reassure the public and protect it psychologically before waves of frustration and despair, and this is a religious and humanitarian responsibility, through establishing hope among the people, criticize cons objectively and find and highlight pros.

\r\n

Withstanding responsibility differs from opposition action

\r\n

The leader of the Iraqi National Alliance, stated that the experience of direct political action and to address the responsibility in running the homeland and citizen affairs is quite different from the opposition action, pointing out that this experience was fraught by challenges ,and under heavy legacy and great deal of intrusions, in addition to loss of project's unity and vision, adding, \"however The work and self-development and modify paths, and to move forward strongly with hope, is a priority that must not been compromised. \"

\r\n

Liberating homeland and building the country requires unity

\r\n

His Eminence stressed solidify the lines and unify stances and reach an agreement even if it is at the level minimum of common priority aspects in the next phase, adding that the liberalization of homeland and building the state and society require unity, and by liberation of homeland we have \"achieved the objectives of the country project\", addressing the conferees \" your religious, doctrinal and moral role is important and strategic in the next phase in spite of the presence of some who encroach, create chaos or attempt to direct the people's frustration and despair against the sons of the Islamic project \" expressing his certainty in the failure of these attempts as other attempts had failed, pointing out that\" this conflict was previously present and will remain in the future, but that does not absolve those who mistreat the value of Islamic role through wrong behaviors and practices, \"stressing on working with leaders of the Iraqi National Alliance to institutionalized it and transformed it from just an electoral coalition to provide a prime ministerial candidate to a political institution serving the state and supports wise political action and seriously and effectively interact with people, hoping to succeed in this task, despite of being difficult and complexed but not impossible, if a minimum level of agreement and a lot of sincere intentions were provided, referring to efforts on holding the Iraqi National Alliance's General Authority meetings that did not take place for years, counting basing on solid grounds a requirement to springboard to the national project, stressing that the institutionalization of the Iraqi National Alliance is an essential and important step to develop a mature and conscious political action learning from mistakes, investing opportunities and face challenges intelligently and wisely.