

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim: Iraq after Daesh will not face a civil war or division, and settlement is Iraq's only option and strategic option

A new steady step made by the National Iraqi Alliance toward the comprehensive and reassuring project post-Daesh and defeating terrorism militarily, this is the indicators from the National Iraqi Alliance delegation meeting headed by Sayyid Hakim, who described the current phase of Iraq as historic, with allied parliamentary powers delegation in the Office of Parliament Speaker Mr. Salim al-Jubouri, Baghdad Monday, 26/12/2016.

\r\n

Head of the National Iraqi Alliance, Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim, at the press conference after the meeting, excluded Iraq going to scenarios of a civil war or division after clearing Mosul from Daesh, it is this sense his eminence explained that the national settlement is an unrivaled option, and the national settlement is a strategic option basing on understanding between Iraqis on sound foundations established by the Constitution and valid laws.

\r\n

His eminence indicated that the allied parliamentary powers understand the option of settlement as a option strategic \"This is what was stated blocs of the allied parliamentary powers \", stressing that the meeting witnessed the insistence of the political powers to build a state of citizenship and a state of institutions which is proposed in the National Iraqi Alliance's document, pointing out that the discussions were constructive and frank, covered the steps required to be taken in accordance with the road map to achieve the settlement.

\r\n

Head of the National Iraqi Alliance indicated that the settlement is very important in the light of \"regional and national changes,\" and expressed optimism after the meeting to continue dialogues and meetings and the formation of the required sub-committees to deliberate on details, calling for unity and synergy in order to serve the people and spread the good news of opposing political powers readiness to be with them and to serve them and evoke national interest, avoid mistakes and delays in previous projects.

\r\n

the meeting's topics also covered the anniversary of the birth of Jesus Christ, exchanging congratulations and reciting Qur'anic verses suitable to the occasion, plus the victories achieved by the security forces to make the final victory on terror and declare Mosul liberated from terrorism, his eminence pointed to the importance of \"reviewing matters of human relations between opposing political powers, emphasizing that the meeting had discussions over victories and the requirements of the next parliamentary tenure and passing important laws that serve the citizen, as well as reaching displaced families and relieve their suffering until the full liberation of Iraqi soil.