

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim calls on Arab leaders to adopt bold decisions that meet the ambitions of peoples

Head of the National Iraqi Alliance, Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim, called on Arab leaders whom are attending the 28th summit in the Dead Sea, Jordan, Wednesday 29/3/2017 to adopt important and bold decisions that meet the ambitions of the Arab peoples and responsibly handle the core of issues facing the Arab Nation, indicating that adopting important decisions is the only guarantee to secure the future.

\r\n

His eminence described the current phase by confused, indicating that Iraq is participating strongly and effectively reclaiming its active and influencing role in planning the future joint Arab work, pointing out that Iraq is close to announce the final victory over terrorism, and Iraq is historically known of its capability to take important roles with its brothers In the face of the major challenges represented in terrorism, weak economic development, the brawl over international and regional interests and the Zionist occupation of Palestine as well as the fragmentation of the internal front, internal differences plus social and intellectual challenges, the statement reads as follows:

\r\n

In a time that is the most confused in the history of the Arab nation, Iraq is taking part in the Arab Summit held in Jordan in a strong and efficient manner, restoring its influential and effective role in mapping the future of joint Arab action, as it is closer to defeat terrorism that is represented in terrorist Daesh, and undoubtedly Iraq is historically known of its capability to take important roles with its brothers In the face of the major challenges represented in Daesh terrorism, weak economic development, the brawl over international and regional interests, and the Zionist occupation of the dear land of Palestine, as well as the fragmentation of the internal front and internal disputes, in addition to the societal and intellectual challenges.

\r\n

We look forward to Arab presidents and leaders to make bold and important decisions that meet the ambitions of the Arab peoples and deal with the core of the problems we responsibly face so that we can move forward and we can guarantee the safety of the future.

\r\n

The Arab summits should not turn into ceremonial rituals or protocol meetings, the outcome of which ends with the conclusion of sessions closing. What we hope is a dynamic and active framework to address common problems and concerns and an institution that innovate joint Arab action. Asking the Almighty Allah to help everyone to serve their people and their countries.

\r\n

\r\n

Ammar al-Hakim

\r\n

Head of the National Iraqi Alliance