

International Day of Peace: Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakeem calls the world to renounce hatred and violence

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakeem, the head of the National State Powers Alliance, considered that International Day of Peace is an opportunity to promote goodwill, brotherhood, and peace. His Eminence tweeted on Tuesday, September 21, 2021, “that International Day of Peace is an opportunity to promote goodwill, brotherhood, and peace, and an invitation for the whole world to renounce violence, put an end to conflicts, and fight extremism. Our world has been devastated by wars, disrupted by conflicts, and exhausted by differences.”

His Eminence called “Join me for peace venture, think creatively as one team to help each other build our countries and make them prosperous and advance them. For our world to become a world of justice, equality, equity, and peace.