

Sayyid Al-Hakeem calls to clean Al-Basrah from remnants of war after mine explosion on family in Rumaila

Sayyid Ammar Al-Hakeem, head of the National State Powers Alliance, called the local efforts to haste cleansing the lands of Al-Basrah from the remnants of war and to learn from international experiences.

His Eminence tweeted on 1 January 2022, “Our condolences and solidarity are with the families of the victims of a mine exploding from the remnants of war on a family in Rumaila Desert in Al-Basrah. This tragic incident requires hastening local efforts and learning from international experiences to eliminate the remnants of war” illustrating that this represents fatal endangerment to civilians.
