

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim, stresses necessity of speeding up the work of committees specialized in addressing the demonstrators' legitimate demands according to the constitution.

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim, head of the Islamic Supreme Council of Iraq (ISCI), stressed the necessity of speeding up the work of the committees that specialize in carrying out the legitimate demands of the demonstrators according to the constitution. During his reception on Monday, January 21, 2013, at his Baghdad office for Sheikh Majid al-Ali al-Sulayman, head of the Dulaim tribes in Iraq, and the delegation accompanying him, His Eminence explained that he was exerting his utmost efforts to resolve the crisis that has been storming the country and to address the legitimate demands of the Iraqi citizens, calling on the demonstrators to encourage the government to respond to their legitimate demands by appreciating the positive steps undertaken by the committees formed for this purpose.

On his part, Sheikh al-Sulayman expressed his appreciation of the role of Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim in defusing the current crisis and to calm the situations down, emphasizing the role of the Al Hakim family in safeguarding the unity of Iraq's land and people and the family's prominent role in monitoring the citizens' legitimate aspirations,
