

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim stresses containing the current crisis according to the constitutional mechanisms and the strengthening of the commonalities

The head of the Islamic Supreme Council of Iraq (ISCI), Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim, has stressed the necessity of employing serious dialogue by the Iraqi groups in order to contain the political crisis in the country.

During his reception for the American Ambassador to Iraq on Thursday, January 31, 2013, Stephen Beecroft, His Eminence stressed the importance of speeding up the containing of the current crisis according to the constitutional mechanisms and to strengthen the commonalities among all Iraqi political forces.

Both sides discussed during the meeting the developments of the current political crisis in the country.