

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim says, "I call on you to communicate with people and to explain your project for the Iraqi voter."

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim, head of the Islamic Supreme Council of Iraq (ISCI), has stressed the necessity of communicating with the people and of serving them with all available resources and of explaining the program and plan of the Citizen Alliance to the Iraqi voter, calling on the members of the Movement of the Martyr of the Niche to focus on their project and vision for serving the homeland and the citizen.

This came up during a meeting between His Eminence with officials of organizations of the Movement of the Martyr of the Niche in Baghdad on Saturday, March 16, 2013.

His Eminence urged the organizations to arm themselves with reliance on Allah and with high trust in Him, the most Praised One, since He does not suffer the reward of any doer of goodness to go to waste, nor does He ever renege from His promise to those who believe in Him.
