

Sayyid Ammar Al Hakim Discusses Security Developments in Iraq and Bilateral Relations with Iranian National Security Advisor

Sayyid Ammar Al Hakim, head of the Islamic Supreme Council, discussed with the Iranian national security advisor Ali Shamkhani the security and political developments in Iraq and the region. This came when his eminence received the advisor in his office on Friday, July 18, 2014. His eminence stressed the need for Iraqi political forces to join efforts in order to overcome the current crisis and form the government through a competent, homogeneous and strong team with a clear vision and program.