

During His Meeting With al-Mutlaq... Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim Calls For Providing Mobile Homes For Displaced people, Liberating Investment And Supporting The Private Sector To Redress The Decline In Oil Imports

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim, head of the Islamic Supreme Council of Iraq, called to provide mobile homes for displaced people, as they will protect families from weather factors and keep their privacy. His Eminence stressed the importance to liberate investment and support the private sector in order to redress the decline in country's imports due to the decline in oil imports that are resulted from the prices' fall and the loss of some import and export outlets in different places in the country because of the security situation. Al-Hakim stressed the importance to consolidate and deepen the national harmony through the formation of a national unity government and the implementation of the government program, pointing out to the necessity of supporting the army and solving the National Guard issue in a deep and reassured view to everybody.

This was made during a meeting between his Eminence and the Prime minister Dr. Saleh al-Mutlaq in the office of the latter in Baghdad, Wednesday, October 22, 2014.

His Eminence showed that the crisis of the displaced people surpasses the abilities where the psychological comfort cannot be afforded to the families that have been displaced from their city and left their home, stressing that the this crisis can only be solved by removing the causes of displacement represented by "Daesh" and expelling them from Iraq, calling on fighting the terrorism with more unity.

Al-Mutlaq pointed out that during his meeting with Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim, they discussed security and political developments and the file of the displaced people, noting that his visions are similar to those of his Eminence regarding the solution of the displaced people crisis by returning the families to their homes, considering that the country's possibilities are limited, especially the financial ones, and calling for the cooperation of everyone to solve this crisis.
