

Receiving the Head of the Tribes Revolutionary Council in Nineveh, Sayyid Ammar Al Hakim Affirms the Continuation of Victories over the ISIS Rats in the Near Future

Sayyid Ammar Al Hakim, head of the Islamic Supreme Council of Iraq, affirmed his support to the Iraqi tribes' revolution on the criminal gangs of ISIS, lauding the heroic and courageous role played by tribes' members in defending their land and honor and cooperating hand in hand with the security forces and the popular crowd. His eminence reiterated the continuation of victories over the ISIS rats thanks to the security forces, the popular crowd and the members of tribes in the coming few days.

This came when his eminence was receiving Sheikh Khaled Sabah Mohammad, the head of the tribes revolutionary council in Nineveh and the accompanying delegation on Sunday, November 2, 2014. For his part, Sheikh Khaled assured that the tribal revolutionary council in Nineveh encompasses representatives of all the components of Mosul, indicating that the meeting with Sayyid Ammar Al Hakim tackled the efforts made by all Iraqi parties to fight ISIS by forming fighting units out of the citizens and tribes of the province under the umbrella of the Iraqi State and government. He pointed out that the victories achieved by the security forces and heroes of the popular crowd in the province of Saladin represent a great achievement and an access to free the province of Nineveh from the terrorist gangs of ISIS. Sheikh Khaled also clarified that terrorism is the enemy of all Iraqi components, highlighting the existence of a tribal revolution in all the provinces where these dirty gangs are located. He finally praised the support provided by the tribes of the south and the center to the tribal revolution in the country's western and northern provinces.
