

When Attending the Hussaini Mourning Gathering Held by the Tribe of Bani Taan, Sayyid Ammar Al Hakim Affirms that National Harmony Needs a Real Knowledge of the Project

Sayyid Ammar Al Hakim, head of the Islamic Supreme Council of Iraq, assured that national harmony is not achieved through conference but need a real knowledge of the project, explaining the importance of peaceful coexistence and national harmony among the components of the Iraqi community, adding that Imam Hussain (AS) came out for the project and for its reform.

This came when his eminence was attending the Hussaini mourning gathering held by the tribe of Bani Lam Taan in Baghdad on Friday, November 14, 2014.

His eminence linked the Hussaini revolution, its goals and men with the current events, highlighting that ISIS is the prolongation of that group who fought Imam Hussain (AS) where beheading, women captivation and terrorization of children took place. His eminence pointed out the important role played by Zaynab (AS) in revealing what happened in Karbala and the reason for which Imam Hussain (AS) came out to fight, underlining that women have a great role in reform as they represent half the society.

His eminence finally called to reflect on the revolution of Imam Hussain and its aspects, for it is for the entire humanity because it's an embodiment of the fight between good and wrong in all places at all times.
