

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim Discusses with Alkhozaei Security and Political Developments and Victories of “To Beck, O Messenger of God” Battle

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim, head of the Islamic Supreme Council of Iraq, received in his office in Baghdad, on March 21, 2015, Dr. Khodair Alkhozaei, secretary-general of the Islamic Dawa Party-Iraq Organization.

His Eminence discussed with Alkhozaei the security and political developments in the country and the aftermaths of “To Beck, O Messenger of God” battle, calling on political forces to support military operations and to deal with the unjust attack against the popular crowd.

Sayyid Ammar al-Hakim stressed the importance of communication between the political forces for the development of a political project that coincides with the security and military developments, noting that ISIS removal requires social, development, service and economic treatments in addition to military progress and security treatment.
